LOCAL FANS TO WITNESS BATTLE AT CLARKSBURG

Special Service for Game on Friday Provided by Traction Co.

By LARRY

A number of local football fans will make a trip to Clarksburg Friday afternoon to see Salem College and Wesleyan College in a battle for some sort of a championship between the two eleven. While it is alleged that these are secondary colleges in the state, it is very likely that first class football will be played. There is a deep-seated rivalry between the two institutions, which was greatly enhanced last season when Wesleyan was downed by the Salem team. Neither team had much last season but uniforms and a spirit, but this year, two real class eleven will tear into each other when the whistle blows, and it will be a fight all the way. The game is played on Friday because Saturday is Sunday at Salem and the Salemites won't play ball on Sunday even if it is Saturday.

The M. P. & R. Co. is making arrangements for extra service between here and Clarksburg for the game, and the local fans will be transported to and from the game in comfort.

GENERAL WOOD WILL RETURN IN JANUARY

Zeigler, of Philadelphia, who is to leave the city tonight for his home after a visit in the island. Mr. Zeigler was commissioned by fellow alumni of the university to get in touch with General Wood, who is now on his third leave of absence from the university to expire January 1. Mr. Zeigler, who is head of a publishing house in Philadelphia, said that General Wood had won the confidence of all classes in the Philippines.

RAIN WON'T INTERFERE WITH PITT GAME; GOAL POSTS WELL PROTECTED

Barney Dreyfuss Starts Preparation to Make West Virginia
Fans Feel at Home on Clear Day—15,000 Snakes
Besides Those in Quart Bottles Expected.

Note—This is the first of a series of articles on the Pitt-West Virginia game by O. Dotell, feature writer for United Synopators Association.

By O. DOTELL

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 10.—The editor sent me down here yesterday to get a line on the weather for the big game Saturday and I am soaked already. It is predicted that it won't rain all week, but as they have put a canvas cover on the goal posts, Barney Dreyfuss told me today that since many of the West Virginia fans would be so disappointed if it did not rain Saturday he had arranged to have a large force of men with sprinkling cans on the roof at Forbes Field if the weather is clear, and they will keep up a continual downpour on the uncovered seats.

This is the first time Barney ever gave a damn what happened to cash customers at Forbes Field. Police headquarters are preparing for a big day. It is estimated that there will be 15,000 snakes here from West Virginia, besides the

PUNTS AND PASSES

By LARRY

Let 'Er Go, Bill
ILLIAM ("Mose") Kline, manager of rail ways, manager of engineers and circulation manager for the M. P. & R. Co., entertained for fifteen minutes yesterday afternoon your humble servant in his palatial office in Jefferson street. Bill is a great old sport and I have come to know him quite well since the days when he handled the Kiwanis baseball team in such an exacting manner that Howard Hardesty could only get on as a pinch hitter. Despite his high position, Bill is always friendly to the Fourth Estate and you don't have to make a date three weeks ahead to get an interview with him. I didn't go down for an interview yesterday, but being as football was the only thing about which neither of us knew anything, we drifted onto that subject as a common ground of conversation. With the Pitts-Lafayette game two days behind and the Pitt-West Virginia game four days ahead we launched into the possibilities of the game ahead, as the game behind held no possibilities.

We sort of agreed that it would be a great game Saturday at Forbes Field and that anything might happen, although we were not sure on this point. It developed that Bill had also been a spectator at the game last Saturday at Forbes Field, and had a few ideas on the subject.

"It's rather hard," said Kline, to say much about that Pitt game off hand, because we were looking at real big league stuff last week. Lafayette has a magnificent team. Practically a veteran team of three years standing and they do not have to bow to anybody as the situation now stands. It would be foolish to say that Pitt has not a good team, because any team that can hold the Lafayette bunch to one touchdown is going some. There is just one game that I would like to see this year, besides, of course, Pitt and West Virginia, and Lafayette and Lehigh, and that game is the battle between Wash-Jeff and Lafayette at the Polo Grounds on November 4. That will be a classic of the season, unless all the dope fails."

We both agreed that if any year looked like a West Virginia year at Pittsburgh it was this year. Under the careful guidance of Dr. C. W. Spears West Virginia has been coming along at just the right pace to reach the high point on Saturday, and it will be the best year since the best that Warner can scrape together. The "old man" has a powerful task on his hands this season to get through a season with a schedule such as Karl Davis arranged for him. Warner has not a single "flash" this year to take the place of Davies. He had sort of a "flash" in Holler, an untimely Saturday, but Tommy, playing his first game of the season, took the count with a broken arm. It is now up to Warner to develop a "flash" or take the consequences, which will probably be defeat from at least three sources—West Virginia, Wash-Jeff and Penn State. In Mahrt, West Virginia has her "flash" and if the field is dry on Saturday, Forbes Field may see a man in action who will make them forget that Carl Beck once set the world on fire.

Getting Ready
Both Pitt and West Virginia worked out yesterday on soggy grids in preparation for the contest Saturday at Forbes Field. The Mountaineers were in high spirits, while the Pitt men were rejected over the Lafayette game. "Gloom"ing over something that is past," Warner told his men. "Isn't going to help any. The Lafayette game is past. Forget it. We got our lick."

ones you get in a qt. bottle by tipping the bell boy $5 to swim out to the "three smile limit" or a cargo of sympathetic gin, made out of denatured alcohol, gasoline, crude oil, lemon extract and raspberries. Customers are requested not to bite the bottles on the neck, and a discount of 10 cents on every $25 qt. of liquor will be made if the bottle is returned with the neck intact and the label undisturbed. This covers the expense of putting on a new label.

Last night I played a game of "500" with Glen Warner and had him beat until the last quarter when he kicked two field goals after free catches, when I was forced to punt from my own 10 cent limit. I put in a claim of holding on both punts, but the referee refused the claim on the grounds that Warner still owed him a rake-off from the first half.

A large force of workmen will start tonight putting in the temporary bars at the local hotels and marking off the out of bound lines. The first scrimmage is expected early Friday evening, and several people may be in the anesthetist ward when the game is called Saturday.

WASH-JEFF WILL PLAY TECH TEAM

Hard Battle Expected Next Saturday for Speedy Presidents.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 10.—Carnegie Tech which meets Wash-Jeff in football here Saturday, has won but one of eight starts against the Presidents. Its only victory coming in 1920 when it captured a combat on a "soupy" field at Tech by 6 to 0. Carnegie "crowded" enough about that performance, to make it appear as if its sole desire over a long stretch of years had been to defeat Wash-Jeff. But in spite of the fact that it won then, its performance in that engagement was not nearly so meritorious as that of last year when the Plaid held the Red and Black to a 14-0 score, considering that the Presidents were the recognized "class" of the East, and one of the most powerful aggregations that ever trod a gridiron.

The single victory of the Skiboos provided the setting for the only score the Pittsburgh team ever made on the Presidents, the Plaid having been "whitewashed" in every other engagement. The first game was played in 1906, and up until the time that Tech garnered its victory, the best it had done was to hold Wash-Jeff, to a 9-0 score in 1910. The highest score made against the Tartan was 52 in 1912.

But the Tech of the present is a far different aggregation from the Plaid of yesterday. Coach Steffen has built up a system at the Pittsburgh institution and with a veteran team, is bringing his proteges along at a pace that puts them among the best in the country. His team, while not as heavy as that of Wash-Jeff, is big enough to cope with practically any outfit it may meet, and above all it has the drive and spirit. W. & J. is better supplied with reserve material, and in the final analysis this may prove the deciding factor in the game.

Manager Murphy announces that the demand for reserved seats in the largest in the history of local football. Tech alone has taken 3,500 tickets and every point within a wide radius is clamoring for seats. Murphy thinks the crowd will run between 12,000 and 15,000 people.

NOTED GEOLOGIST DIES.

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Oct. 10.—W. S. Vanduff, 70 years old, a well known oil and gas geologist, is dead at his home here. Mr. Vanduff worked in practically all the fields of the United States.

Heavy Sale

MORGANTOWN, Oct. 10.—When Washington & Lee and West Virginia University get together at football at Charleston on Saturday, October 21, all of Southern West Virginia apparently wishes to be in the stands. This football game is a social event as well as a grid combat of no small proportions. Mountaineer fans in Southern West Virginia find it difficult to get to Morgantown and few of them wish to miss the big Charleston game. In fact nearly every man who has any interest whatever in college football apparently wants to get a seat "near the 50 yard line" on this day.

The result is that Director H. A. Stansbury of West Virginia University and "Dick" Smith, graduate manager at Washington & Lee, have a problem on their hands.

In the first place the W. V. U. Club of Charleston wants 450 seats; the Charleston W. V. U. "Rooters Club" wants 150 seats; mail orders received from alumni in towns outside of Charleston total 700 seats; the Washington & Lee alumni want a total of 600 seats; a convention of prominent business people meeting in Charleston at the time wants 125 seats; a single manufacturing firm located in Charleston with customers all through Southern West Virginia wants 600 seats for its patrons; a prominent state official has applied for 200 seats to sell in the capital; and Montgomery, Beckley, Huntington, Hinton and a dozen other towns have asked for blocks of seats ranging from 25 to 400. Director Stansbury stated today that practically every available seat had already been applied for with the sale not scheduled to open till Saturday.

The main difficulty is that all these orders call for tickets right in the center of the field and it is a physical impossibility of course, to satisfy all the demands. It has been decided to wait till all orders are in and then give every order its proper share of the best seats.

KINGMONT WINS.

The Kingmont baseball club defeated Watson Sunday in one of the fastest games of the season by the score of 2 to 1. The game ended in the last of the ninth with two down when the umpire's decision on a foul ball was disputed and Hartley took the Watson team off the field. The game was of the sensational order with many brilliant plays.

A running catch by Bradley was a feature. The pitching of Long and catching of Heffner were the best seen on the local field this season.

Trader pitched wonderful ball, allowing but three hits. The score by innings: R. H. E. Kingmont ..... 200 000 000—2 3 1 Watson ..... 001 000 00—1 4 1

VARSIITY SQUAD NOT READY YET

Bag of Tricks Needed for Contest With Pitt
Gridders.

MORGANTOWN, October 10.—Unless the West Virginia Varsity eleven can show more against the University of Pittsburgh at Forbes Field next Saturday than it has in either of its games so far the Mountaineers, in the opinion of many fans here, are doomed to go down to defeat at the hands of the Panthers. While the feeling of pessimism does not prevail West Virginia fans are wise enough to consider the situation from all angles. They know that Dr. C. W. Spears has built up a powerful defense, and that the Mountaineer machine is fairly strong in every department, but they also know that it is going to take more than straight football to beat Pitt.

Everyone who knows anything about the gridiron sport will admit that Pop Warner is one of the smartest coaches in the business today. He has had the Varsity scouted ever since the season opened, but so far his hirelings have seen nothing from the Spearman except straight football. In fact, no one has seen more and the activity behind closed gates at the secret workouts has been kept so quiet that even persons who were formerly regular fountain of information are unable to throw any light on the situation. So far as the Mountaineer fans know the team does not have a single trick play in store for the Panthers.

It would be foolish for West Virginia fans to think that the Mountaineers can crush Pitt by using the most elementary of plays, a poorly developed aerial attack. They are close students of the game and are well acquainted with what it takes to win games over strong opponents. The Mountaineers may be able to hold Pitt in check and then like Lafayette get a "break" which will give them a chance to score, but it is a bad policy to place too much dependence in "Break" and if the Mountaineers are to trim Pitt Dr. Spears must teach his charges a whole lot more than they know now about advancing the ball.

JACK SCOTT RATED AS BEST PITCHER IN SERIES

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The five pitchers who twirled the Giants to their second successive world championship allowed an average of 1.76 earned runs as compared with an average allowance of 3.35 earned runs by the five Yankee moundmen, according to official pitching records for the series made public today.

Jack Scott, who scored a brilliant shut-out over the Yankees in the third game of the series, easily ranked as the most effective of the Giant staff. Aside from Sam Jones, who worked but two innings, Walter Hoyt led the Yankees with an average of but 1.12 earned runs.
